Isn't My Name Magical?

By James Berry

Nobody can see my name on me.
My name is inside
and all over me, unseen
like other people also keep it.
Isn't my name magic?
My name is mine only.
It tells I am unique,
and it represents who I am.
If I'm with hundreds of people and my name gets called,
my sound switches me on to answer
like it was my human electricity.
Isn't that magical?
My name echoes across playground,
it comes, it has my attention.
I have to find out who calls,
who wants me for what.
My name gets blurted out in class,
it is a terror, at a bad time,
because somebody is cross.
My name gets called in a low voice
I am happy, because my name may have touched me
with a loving voice.
Isn't it all magic?

 represent 代表 switch 轉換 echo 回音 blurt 脫口而出 terror 恐怖的事

(B) He needs to look for the person that called him.
(C) He must find a place to hide until the people go away.
(D) He covers his ears until the sound stops.

There are some foreign superstitions that we might think very strange or funny. For example, if we sneeze, our foreign friends usually say, "God bless you." to us. We may wonder why our sneeze has anything to do with God. The reason is that some foreigners once believed the soul could run away from the body when a person sneezed. In order to stop this from happening, people asked God to bless and to protect the one who sneezed. Another interesting example is that when people from other countries wish us good luck, they sometimes say "Break a leg!" to us. This is because by saying so, evil spirits can be tricked and do us no harm. So next time when you hear someone say this to you, don't get mad.
